

Executive Summary & Strategic Recommendations

GEN P CAPSTONE PROJECT | BUSINESS ANALYTICS & CROSS-FUNCTIONAL INSIGHTS | BY MOHIT JAURA

This memo shares the most important takeaways from our new dashboard. By looking at Sales, Marketing, Support, and Finance together, we found exactly where we are losing money and customers. Here are five simple steps we can take right now to fix these issues and grow our revenue.

1. Stop Overselling the Enterprise Package to Small Businesses

- The Finding: Our data shows that 30.6% of our lost customers follow the exact same path: they are small businesses (SMBs) in South Asia who bought our biggest software package (WorkHub Enterprise) through partner referrals.
- The Impact: We are wasting time and money setting up small companies with a massive tool they don't actually need. They quickly realize it's too much for them and cancel, which hurts our steady revenue.
- The Action Plan: The Sales team needs to stop selling the Enterprise tier to small businesses immediately. Referral partners should only offer our 'Core' or 'Pro' packages to SMBs. Target: Bring South Asian SMB cancellations under 10% by the end of Q3.

2. Intervene in the Mid-Market Support Crisis

- The Finding: Our charts show that our Mid-Market customers are submitting the most support tickets, and they are also the group downgrading their accounts the most.
- The Impact: Frustrated customers are costing us money. If we don't figure out why our core middle-tier users are struggling with the software, they will keep downgrading or leaving us altogether.
- The Action Plan: The Customer Success and Product teams need to read through the last 90 days of Mid-Market support tickets to find out exactly what's breaking or confusing them. Target: Reduce Mid-Market support tickets by 20% over the next 4 months.

3. Shift Marketing Dollars to High-Yield Channels

- The Finding: Paid ads (like LinkedIn) are losing us money, while organic, direct product sign-ups are highly profitable.
- The Impact: We are burning cash on expensive ads that aren't working, instead of funding the simple sign-up process that actually brings in good customers.
- The Action Plan: The Marketing team should pause the paid ads that aren't working right now and move 50% of that budget into making our direct sign-up process even better. Target: Boost overall Marketing ROI by 15% before the year ends.

4. Deploy a CSAT "Red Alert" System

- The Finding: There is a clear link between low customer satisfaction scores (CSAT) and customers cancelling their accounts.
- The Impact: Right now, we wait for people to cancel instead of trying to save them when they tell us they are unhappy. Every lost customer is lost future revenue.
- The Action Plan: Customer Support needs to set up an automatic alarm. Anytime a customer leaves a satisfaction score of 2.0 or lower, a rep must call them within 24 hours to fix the problem. Target: Save 25% of these unhappy customers starting next month.

5. Correct the Systemic Budget Forecasting Error

- The Finding: Every single department missed their budget goals by 10-15%.
- The Impact: Even though we still have plenty of cash in the bank, the fact that everyone missed their budget means our original predictions were just wrong. We can't plan for the future if we don't know our real costs.
- The Action Plan: The Finance team needs to look closely at last year's spending to see where we guessed wrong, and then build a more realistic budget template for everyone to use. Target: Get all department budgets to within 5% of their targets by next quarter.
